SENATE COMMITTEE APPEALS TO HUNGARY

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WASHINGTON—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee this week issued a statement condemning the threatened extermination of the 800,000 Jews of Hungary by the Germans, and appealed to the Hungarian people to assist the menaced Jews. The statement, which was broadcast to Europe by the Office of War Information said:

"The people of the United States and all freedom-loving people are horrified by the news that Hitler has designated the 800,000 Jews in Hungary for death. That the people of Hungary should countenance the cold-blooded murder of innocent men, women and children is unthinkable. Once Hungary was the haven of tens of thousands who fled the Nazi terror in other lands. Once Hungary protected the helpless who sought refuge within its borders. Once Hungarians shielded their Jewish fellow-citizens. But now the Hungarian puppet government has joined the Nazis in their ruthless determination to do away with the Jews.

"While there is yet time the people of Hungary can demonstrate to the world that this unholy scheme is a betrayal of the true Hungarian spirit. They can hide the Jews until such time as they may help them to safety across the borders. They can refuse to purchase property stolen from the Jews. They can use every means to obstruct the Nazis and those Hungarians who are in league with the Nazis. They can keep watch and remember those who are accessories to murder and those who extend mercy, until the time when guilt and innocence will weigh heavily in the balance. That time is near."

Almost all of the two hundred and seventy-five refugees who arrived in Canada from Spain and Portugal last month have been satisfactorily settled and absorbed into the life of the country, Saul Hayes, national director of the Canadian Jewish Refugee and War Relief Agencies, reported this week.

POLISH UNDERGROUND NOT AIDING JEWS, REFUGEE TELLS MEETING

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
TEL AVIV—The Polish underground movement is not helping any Jews it was charged here by a Jew who succeeded in escaping from occupied Poland. Addressing the opening session of the Mapai, the Jewish Labor Party of Palestine, on the situation of the Jews in Poland, he said: "I bring you

Klan Dissolved, Atlanta Reports

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
ATLANTA—The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, at one time the strongest anti-Semitic movement in the United States, has been dissolved, it was reported this week.

The Klan, which gained nationwide notoriety beginning with 1920, flourished widely up until 1928, when legislative inquiries into its activities curbed it somewhat. From 1928, on it functioned in different parts of the country at various times, but was not active on a nation-wide scale. After the establishment of the Nazi German-American Bund the Klan cooperated with the bundists in disseminating anti-Semitic propaganda, but it played a secondary role.

Wins Ribbon; Says He's Repaying Nazis

Pvt. Manfred Paul, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Paul, 2958 N. Penn, who has been overseas and lately in active service on the Anzio beachhead has received "the ribbon for exceptionally good conduct under enemy fire and gallant behavior." Pvt. Paul came to the United States from Germany in 1938. He has been overseas a year. He writes, "I am glad to be of service to the United States and delighted to repay the Nazis in part for what they have done to others."

JEWS HURT MOST IN EMPLOYMENT

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WASHINGTON—The chief sufferers from religious discrimination is employment in the United States are Jews, James B. Carey, national secretary-treasurer of the CIO and chairman of its committee to abolish racial discrimination, told the House Labor Committee this week. He spoke in support of a bill to create a permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission.

Smuts' Envoy Sees Dominion For Palestine

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
JERUSALEM—A personal representative of Prime Minister Jan Smuts of South Africa, after completing a two-weeks secret visit to Palestine, has expressed the belief that the country will be incorporated into the British Empire with dominion status, it was learned here from reliable sources.

Smuts' emissary, Major H. B. Tunison, accompanied by three adjutants conferred with David Ben-Gurion, chairman of the executive committee of the Jewish Agency, high government officials and many prominent Jewish and Arab leaders. He also visited many Jewish settlements and Arab villages.

B'nai B'rith to Elect At Meeting Tuesday

The Indianapolis lodge of B'nai B'rith will elect officers for the coming year at its meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday at Kirshbaum Center.

Nominated by the nominating committee are: Mack E. Laner for president; Edgar M. Fassburg, first vice president; Samuel Ziffrin, second vice president; William M. Myers, third vice president, or assistant monitor; Sidney Mahalowitz, treasurer; Nathan Resnick, secretary and David M. Cook, retiring president, monitor. Trustees nominated are Julius Sagalowsky, Saul C. Koby, Bert Sicanoff, Charles S. Kaufman and Alex Katz, with Henry Blatt and Max Katz as honorary trustees.

Additional nominations may be made from the floor.

Plans are being formulated for a dinner and social meeting to be held jointly with the Ladies Auxiliary, at which the newly elected officers will be installed.

The Mexican Committee Against Racial Discrimination protested this week against the showing of a play by Iwo Pelay called "The Jew" on grounds that "its content is anti-Semitic and therefore discriminatory."

Moisei Ginsburg, 54-year-old Jewish architect who was born in Minsk and studied in France and in Italy, has been appointed chief of the Soviet commission which is to rebuild the city of Sevastopol which the Nazis devastated prior to their retreat.

U. S. TO USE CAMPS HERE FOR FREE PORTS

By MURIEL LEVIN

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WASHINGTON—The United States government is considering taking over army camps which are no longer needed, as temporary shelters for refugees from Europe, President Roosevelt disclosed this week. He told his press conference that he has conferred with John W. Pehle, executive director of the War Refugee Board, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry L. Morgenthau, Jr., on the proposal.

Finances From Army or UNRRA
The President said he was not sure who would finance the refugee havens, possibly the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration or the army. The army, he stated, was very directly involved in the matter. In one city on the Mediterranean coast, he disclosed, 1,800 refugees had poured in last week, creating a problem of maintenance in a fighting zone.

In answer to a question about his conference with Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Pehle, President Roosevelt said that they were considering taking one of the army camps no longer needed to turn into refugee camps, but the matter was only in the study stage. The President said they were also examining other phases of the question and that he had suggested the use of the resort hotels in Taormina, off the east coast of Sicily, and Cyrenaica, which was formerly used as an Italian winter resort, and other places in the Mediterranean area to house refugees.

The President said that if there are starving and helpless people, it seems little enough to do to give them a place to stay. It was, he said, the humanitarian thing to do to keep life in them anywhere in the world until they could be returned home.

House Gets 'Free Ports' Resolution

Meanwhile, Rep. Samuel Dickstein (N. Y. Dem.) introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives urging the establishment of "free ports." Those admitted would remain for a period not extending beyond six months after the end of the war.

The measure was referred to the House Immigration Committee, of which Dickstein is chairman. He said that he expected 30 or 40 members of the House from various sections of the country to follow suit and introduce similar bills next week. Rep. Arthur Klein (N. Y. Dem.) later told the House in a brief speech in support of "free ports" that he hoped there would be some action on the matter soon.

Einstein Absent as 600 Mark His 65th Birthday

Special
NEW YORK—Without the guest of honor being present, more than 600 prominent men and women from all walks of life gathered this week at a dinner in the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria marking the 65th birthday of Prof. Albert Einstein by the American Fund for Palestinian Institutions. Prof. Einstein in a message sent from Princeton, expressed confidence that the Jews there "will succeed in a good measure of cooperation with the Arab people, if only both our people and the Arabs succeed in conquering that childhood complaint of a narrow-minded nationalism, imported from Europe and aggravated by professional politicians."

GREEN SAYS A. F. OF L. TO FIGHT FOR JEWISH NATIONAL HOME

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Addressing the convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, pledged that the A. F. of L. would fight for a permanent National Home in Palestine at the peace conference. Strongly condemning the White Paper and demanding free immigration of Jews to Palestine, Mr. Green said that "the American labor movement is embittered and disappointed over England's treatment of the Palestine problem."

"Our hearts," he stated, "bleed when reading of the Nazi atrocities against Jews. We consider the closing of Palestine's doors to Jewish immigration a great crime. At the peace conference the American Federation of Labor will use its entire power and influence to secure a permanent national home for Jews in Palestine. Though England retreated from her promise to the Jewish people, we believe that Palestine must be a free and independent country. In order to achieve this, we shall fight for the abolition of all immigration restrictions against Jews in Palestine."

BETH EL HIRES EDUCATION HEAD; J. E. A. TO LEAVE NEUSTADT BUILDING

New developments in the situation of Hebrew education in the city were marked this week by the employment by Beth El-Zedeck Congregation of William B. Lakritz, of Cleveland, O., as Director of Education and Activities and executive assistant to the Rabbi. Mr. Lakritz's appointment was voted at a board meeting Tuesday night.

Meanwhile the committee named to study the report of Dr. Leo L. Honor's recent survey of the Jewish Education situation, approved resolutions authorizing the abandonment of the Neustadt Building as soon as possible and the purchase of a permanent home on the North Side. Attending the meeting which approved the report were 36 delegates representing 12 organizations.

In announcing the appointment of Mr. Lakritz, Robert Stolkin, president of the congregation, said he wanted to make it clear that Beth El will not install a school of its own, until and unless the Jewish Education Association moves its school from their building. "If the J. E. A. does not move," Mr. Stolkin declared, "then Beth El will not organize a school of its own."

Mr. Lakritz has been associated with the Euclid Avenue Temple in Cleveland and the Park School there.

TOWN CRIER

BY G M C

Last year the Indianapolis Jewish Federation, which has slowly been conceding the point that since it does not make decisions for the community, the community has some rights in knowing what goes on, acceded to a request of The Post. The Post in a letter to the Federation asked permission to cover meetings, in the same manner as the daily press covered meetings of the legislatures, etc. The Federation nodded in the direction of democracy, when in answer to this letter, it decided to allow The Post to read the minutes of the Federation meetings.

But now even this right has been withdrawn. Not withdrawn from The Post, but from the Jewish community. The Post is not a factor, and The Post has not been slapped in the face, but the community, which in the last analysis benefitted from knowing what went on, has been snubbed.

The genesis of the recent action is really ridiculous. It seems that in referring to the minutes of a recent board meeting, The Post reported that Theodore Dann entered a motion which was passed, that the Federation go on record as approving kosher meals in any of the buildings of its constituents so equipped. Historians some day, going through these records, may count that motion as a turning point in the life of the community. But this reporting vexed the Board, and without a dissenting voice, they withdrew the community's right to know what the Federation does. Under the present set-up, the Federation supplies The Post with a glorified press release, instead of the actual minutes of the meeting.

And the funny part of it all, is that there was no exception to the fact that The Post reported the motion, but merely to the fact that The Post reported who entered the motion. In Congress they call bills by the names of the sponsors. And in this instance, the name of the introducer of the motion was overly important, because it told the tale of an intra-community fight. When Kirshbaum's decision to set up a kosher kitchen was announced, prematurely albeit there were resignations from the Kirshbaum board. Theodore, who is president of the J. C. C. A., stood his ground, which is certainly commendable, and the rift was patched up. So that when he introduced that motion at the Federation meeting, the fact of his bringing the matter up, was the key to the whole situation. It all really is a pity.

I knew some weeks back that Allan Bloom, Kirshbaum executive director, had been asked to deliver a lecture at the national A. Z. A. Summer Institute at Bloomington, but never got around to telling you. He's on the program as a guest lecturer, and I think he'll tell the boys about techniques in group work on July 25.

Speaking of Kirshbaum reminds me to praise those responsible for the tie-up between the J. E. A. and the Kirshbaum Summer Day Camp. This move was obvious and perhaps overdue. In regular camps, I suppose you know, that there are courses in Hebrew and Jewish customs and ceremonies; and this remarkably enough, is urged as one of the points of attraction to even those homes where Jewishness is almost nonexistent. For in camp, the children can become acquainted with the culture of their forebearers and given an insight into what their Jewishness is all about, which they couldn't get in their home environment because no one in the home is capable of transmitting it.

I have never gotten around to apologizing for the typographical error made several weeks back when, in reporting the number of night's lodgings secured for soldiers, we printed 83 instead of 873. But this gives me an opportunity to give proper credit to Mrs. Joseph (Ruth) Klein, who has charge of that part of the Kirshbaum U. S. O. work. Ruth not only carries a good share of the burden of the Women's Auxiliary of the B'nai B'rith on her shoulders, but in addition is one of the most reliable persons I know of in the community for work of this sort. She just doesn't fail you, once she undertakes a job.

Not having been invited, naturally I didn't attend the meeting of the committee appointed to study the survey made of the Jewish Education System here by Dr. Leo L. Honor, of Chicago. But I do have a contribution to make, and I'll do it now.

It would be a senseless mistake not to hold a drive immediately for funds to build a new J. E. A. building on the North Side. I think there is common agreement on this. But at the same time, there does not seem to be the necessary understanding of the possibilities of the present. There is, or rather was, when a few weeks ago I talked with the interested parties, the thought of raising twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars. That would be criminal. For instance in Louisville, they are raising $250,000 for a new Center Building. The first crack out of the box was a gift which amounted to $65,000. Then last week the Milwaukee Jewish community set out on a $300,000 campaign for the same purpose. The first large gift was $25,000. What I am driving at is clear. If $25,000 or more or less is raised for the J. E. A. now, then another drive would be out of the question for a period of at least ten years. Even so I am not intimating that just because money can be raised is reason to raise the maximum. No, not that. But this Jewish education is the one most important factor to the wholesome continuation of the vital Jewish community. We all know that, and we all talk about it glibly. Then why, as Dr. Honor pointed out, do we make our children go to class rooms, to which they would be ashamed to bring their non-Jewish friends, and which when compared with the regular school building, can only result in bad psychological impressions. With the right vision, the city can have an education building, suitable for all functions connected with the various phases of the work of the J. E. A., which would be a matter of pride with it. The drive should be for an amount between $75,000 and $100,000, no less.

Lt. Alfred Dobrowitz must have gotten a thrill recently when on one of his training flights from the army air field at Sioux City, Iowa, he found himself heading for Indianapolis. The plane got past Terre Haute, up to Brazil, and Alfred was able to read through glasses a Road 40 sign saying Indianapolis 61 miles before they headed homeward.

I see by The Ohio Jewish Chronicle of Columbus, O., that "Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt, of Temple Beth El, Indianapolis, Ind." addressed the Columbus Zionist District there June 1. Now it depends on the size of the rabbi as to exactly who addressed the Ohio group.

VAAD HAHATZALAH, JEWISH WELFARE FUND STATE POSITIONS IN TIFF

To the Editor:

A campaign for funds for the Vaad Hahatzala was conducted during the Shavuot Holidays. This campaign did not have the approval or consent of the Jewish Welfare Fund.

The Jewish Welfare Fund made an appropriation this year to this organization with the understanding that no solicitations would be made in this community. Therefore, the Jewish Welfare Fund will probably cancel this appropriation. This policy of the Jewish Welfare Fund has been in effect many years.

An appropriation of $1,000 was made to the Vaad Hahatzala in 1943 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1944. The Jewish Welfare Fund changed to a calendar year basis beginning in January, 1944. An appropriation of $750.00 was made to the Vaad Hahatzala for 1944 in addition to that amount which should be allocated to this year from last year's appropriation, or in effect a total of $1,000 for 1944. The Jewish Welfare Fund receives requests for appropriations annually far in excess of its available funds and makes allotments based on its best judgment. It is admitted that larger sums could be profitably employed by its constituent agencies if the additional money was available. On the other hand, it is not believed that more money can be raised in the community if each agency conducts a separate campaign.

The Vaad Hahatzala is a reputable organization which is assisting a certain class of refugees but to some extent duplicates the work of the Joint Distribution Committee which endeavors to help all refugees.

Joseph Hyman, executive secretary of the Jewish Welfare Fund, will be glad to furnish information at any time over the phone or in person regarding any agency which is conducting a campaign for funds locally.

It has been the policy in the past for the Jewish Welfare Fund to authorize campaigns for capital expenditures but it is regrettable when any constituent agency forces a cancellation of its appropriation by instituting its own campaign for its annual requirements. Campaigns of this nature defeat the spirit of unity and cooperation which the Jewish Welfare Fund endeavors to effect.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM L. SCHLOSS.

President,
Jewish Welfare Fund.

Rabbi Fox Reelected By U. H. C.; Gets Raise

Rabbi Samuel J. Fox, spiritual leader of the United Hebrew Congregation, was reelected with a substantial increase in salary at a special meeting of the congregation and the Sisterhood. During the three years in the pulpit, the membership of the congregation has been more than doubled, Rabbi Fox announced.

Wanted: Three or four gallon thermos jugs to be used for serving cold drinks at Stout Field and Fort Harrison, at the social hours following services. If you have one to loan or donate to the USO-JWB Club, call Hi. 0550.

To the Editor:

As is well known by this time, a city-wide drive for funds for the Emergency Rescue Committee (Vaad Hahatzala) has been launched from the pulpits of 3 synagogues of this city during the Shavuot Holidays. The unanimity and intensity of the response is truly indicative of the genuine spirit of the community. The general estimate of the results of the synagogue appeals exceed $1,500.00 (fifteen hundred dollars). As had been previously announced, a delegation of nationally known rabbinic and lay leaders is expected to visit the community for the promotion and conclusion of this drive.

The many efforts that have been made to receive a suitable allocation from the Local Jewish Welfare Fund have failed. In spite of the unanimous opinion of its own subcommittee for a substantial allocation of at least $2,000.00 for this noble work, the Board refused to grant more than $750.00. We should like to point out the fact that this effort is part of a nationwide drive, during which both community appeals and welfare fund allocations in parallel instances far surpassed the meager amount mentioned by the Welfare Fund board. After conferring with a number of board members of the Jewish Welfare Fund, it was pointed out that Indianapolis, as other communities, had the right to make a special drive for this emergency. Many citizens encouraged such an effort. Members of the board of directors of the local Jewish Welfare Fund have contributed to the effort already.

Confidential reports that have reached us concerning the amazing efforts and results of this work are startling. The need of rescue and salvation for our unfortunate brethren is appalling. By no means unfamiliar is the command of the Bible which fixes the responsibility of blood and starvation upon the shoulders of the community outside of which a dead body is found, by requiring its elders to proclaim "Our hands have not shed this blood." Countless is the toll of human lives who have died because of the lack of rescue funds and efforts. During the current drive for funds let each of us honestly examine our position and see whether or not we can honestly say "Our hands have not shed this blood." Those who would attempt to block this effort are shedding innocent blood in vain. Thank God the citizens of Indianapolis are showing their pure hearts and loyal souls by cooperating with this drive.

We shall be glad to supply any additional information in this matter upon request.

RABBI SAMUEL A. KATZ,
RABBI SAMUEL J. FOX.

DOING DUTY TO PEOPLE, GOD AND COUNTRY

Ted Koll, Ph. M 3/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Koltinsky, is now stationed somewhere in the Pacific theatre, with the medical corps. Until a month ago, Ted was stationed in San Diego, and during the past six months his parents visited in Los Angeles so that they could be close to their son for frequent visits. Now that he is overseas, Ted and his parents have devised a clever plan by which to answer their letters so that they may do so in a consecutive manner since they write every day. In letter number 37 Ted writes: "Felt quite good today and here is why. This morning was the first Jewish service ever held on this base. The Chaplain was Rabbi Morton Berman, formerly of Chicago. I'm sure you remember him. So naturally I told him who I was and that Rabbi Daskal is my cousin. He had nice services this morning and about 20 showed up. He is going to be here every Tuesday night and services each Saturday morning. So as long as I'm here I shall attend. Sometimes, I can't figure myself out. After I go to services I get a great satisfaction out of it. I feel that I have done my duty to my own people, to my God, and to myself."

TEN OF TWENTY-NINE HONOR STUDENTS JEWISH

"It gives me pleasure to invite you to become a member of the Senior Honor Society of Horace Mann School. Your excellent scholastic record has made you eligible, and Mr. Trump (principal) and the faculty concur in the belief that your character and good citizenship merit this honor." Such a letter was received this past week by ten Jewish children out of a group of 20 who were inducted Friday afternoon at an impressive ceremony. Two other Jewish children, Gloria Brown and Doris Silep, previous members, served with two others on the induction program as speakers. The ten inducted are: Doris Berg, Mickey Blau, Clarence Greenwald, Elsie Oppman, Lillian Oppman, Littia Pekarsky, Bernice Rosenbloom, Ruth Shipow, Kenneth Wechsler, and Martha Zola. All are members of this year's graduating class but Elsie Oppman and Littia Pekarsky.

SARA'S COLUMN

By SARA MESSING STERN

ABOUT FORTY-SEVEN or forty-eight years ago, a group of eight young matrons formed a social club and called themselves the L. L. L. Club. The original members were Mesdames Meyer Cohn, Moses Eckhouse, David Kahn (Hannah Fisher), David (Dr.) Kahn, Henry Kahn, Henry Kantrowitz and Isaac Rice. Though they normally met in the homes an occasional gala occasion was celebrated in the old Americus Club. After Mrs. Rice moved to Lafayette, Mrs. Henry Rauh and Mrs. E. I. Fisher were made members of the club. There are several members of the L. L. L.'s living in Indiana and twelve children of the various couples have families of their own. The women still recall those "good old times!"

MOSES ECKHOUSE told his wife Emma Eckhouse he wanted to give a stag party for the husbands of the members—he didn't want any women but the help around. She was peeved! So were all the wives. . . . The evening arrived. The meal was a regular banquet. After the first and second courses had been served, in came seven colored maids, each in white apron and cap. Each balanced a tray on one hand above her head, on which was the third course, and each served one man. Moses Eckhouse immediately recognized that they were their wives but, in some way, signalled the men that they should give no sign that they knew. The women went to the kitchen dejectedly. But then, they heard roars of laughter from the dining room and they went in and joined in the mirth. Later, they washed off the black, donned evening dresses, and there was a dance in the ballroom on the third floor on the Eckhouse home.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Goodman who had a 20th wedding anniversary June 4. The best gift you gave Sara, Jack, was the fact that you are well again!

CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldstein on their 20th wedding anniversary, June 2. The Goldsteins have sold their home at 4359 North Illinois street so their many friends came over informally on the anniversary to celebrate and, incidentally to bid farewell to the hospitable home!

CONGRATULATIONS to Mrs. Ida Behrens on her 87th birthday, June 5. Mrs. Behrens came here 28 years ago from Arkansas City, Ark. She makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sidney J. Sternberger. Last Sunday, a family breakfast at the Sternbergers was a celebration not only of Mrs. Behrens' birthday but also that of her daughter's, Mrs. Sternberger's on June 3, her granddaughter's, Marjorie Marx of Huntington on May 31, and that of Marjorie's father, L. E. Marx, on June 2. Mr. Marx with his wife and daughter were here for the celebration. Mrs. Behrens has always led a useful life. She has made some of the most beautiful hand-work I've ever seen. She has hosts of friends who "trooped" over to congratulate her!!

WITH THE DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAM H. BLOCK, Indianapolis has lost a gentle, generous soul. I knew her best in the days when her sons were my Sunday school pupils. She was such a kind, indulgent mother. There was something fine and naive about her. Though her illness has kept her from participation in community activities for many years, there are many, many folks who can recall her gifts, large amounts, to those who needed help. In those days, she was a member of all our local Jewish women's organizations and contributed to their various philanthropies. She joined in alleviating the miseries of the poor but she never let her name be published as a donor. And her gifts were given irrespective of creed or color! She was a loyal friend, humble in her friendship, eager to bring happiness to those she loved. In these days when contributions and the donors names are blazoned before the public, when there is so much done for the glory it will bring, it is with a sense of gratitude that I recall Mrs. William Block who did God's will unassumingly, humbly, glad for the privilege of serving others.

First Lieutenant Edward A. Block who was called home by the death of his mother, Mrs. William H. Block, has returned to his station in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ward Officer Sigmund Sommers, formerly of Selma, Ala., now stationed in Ohio, spent the week-end with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Block.

Home Ceremony To Unite Riva Tuch, Abraham Katzman

Mrs. Esther Tuch announces the approaching marriage, at 3 p. m. Sunday, June 11, of her daughter, Riva to Abraham Katzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Katzman, 2947 Ruckle street at the home of the groom's parents. Rabbi Nandor Fruchter will officiate.

A reception and buffet supper will take place at the bride's home from 5 to 10 p. m. following the ceremony. The honeymoon will be spent in Chicago and the couple will reside in Indianapolis.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding will include Mrs. Bess Kramer, Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lenet, Ben Lenet, Mr. and Mrs. T. Goldstein of Chicago; Dave Katzman of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Katzman, Windsor, Canada; Mrs. Frieda Hofkin, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. David Wiesman, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weisman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weisman, all from Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Max Essex and daughter Minnette and Bertha Pinales, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Liebert Mossler Home From Hospital

The many friends of Shirley Mossler, wife of Lt. Liebert I Mossler of Ft. Meade, Md., will be glad that she is completely recovered after her two weeks illness at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington. The Mosslers moved to Greenbelt, Md., a government project, 12 miles from Washington, D. C. . . . Mrs. Herman Kaufman of Duncan Falls, O., and her daughter, Judy, who have been visiting Mrs. Kaufman's mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Snewind at the Marott hotel, returned home today (Friday). . . . Mrs. Sultan Cohen and mother, Mrs. M. Alexander have moved into the apartment of Helen Leventhal at 432 E. Fall Creek Blvd. . . . Walter Sondermann of 2832 Park Ave., has been promoted to the position of head steward at the Columbia Club.

Cadet Leonard Allen Koby has returned home from Riverside Military Academy to spend the summer vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Koby, 5340 N. New Jersey St.

Arnold Satz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Satz, 5302 North Delaware, arrived home Monday from Ohio Military Institute, Cincinnati, to spend his summer vacation with his parents.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

Names of letter writers need not be printed, and will not be divulged, although the name must be appended to the letter as it reaches our office for verification as to authenticity. TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCE WITH HEAD OF SIOUX CITY CONGREGATION

To the Editor:

Sometime ago you published a letter from a Mr. Louis Goldberg from Sioux City, Iowa. Being the President of the Temple, the Houston Congregation has had the letter reprinted and sent to many men and women connected with the Reform Synagogues.

The following information about Mr. Goldberg, whom I know intimately, having been twelve years Rabbi of the Sioux City Temple, is important.

Mr. Louis Goldberg, during my service in Sioux City, enjoyed the reputation in the Jewish Community of being a violent atheist. During my ministry, it was his habit to go every Yom Kippur to his office, and to spend the entire day there as a matter of principle, to show his utter disregard for the Jewish religion. So consumed was he with self-hate and with contempt for Judaism that when his son was confirmed, as a concession to his wife, I prepared for the youth a special selection entitled "My Country," in which no mention was made of anything even remotely pertaining to Judaism or Israel.

It is tragic that the Temple presidency has gone by default to a man so little worthy of it, and so utterly unrepresentative of the sentiments of Sioux City Jewry as Mr. Goldberg. To use the accident of his position to spread his anti-Jewish prejudices is insolence of an extreme order.

Thanking you for the space which I trust you will give this communication, I am,

THEODORE N. LEWIS.

Rabbi,
Progressive Synagogue,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Goldberg,

I have a letter from Dr. Theodore N. Lewis of the Progressive Synagogue of Brooklyn, N. Y., and before I print it I want to give you the courtesy of answering his charges in the same issue.

Dr. Lewis identifies himself as having been for 12 years Rabbi of the Sioux City Temple. He declares himself intimately acquainted with you and that he confirmed your son.

His short letter charges that you, in the past, "enjoyed the reputation in the Jewish Community of being a violent atheist," that during his ministry, it was your "habit to go every Yom Kippur to his office to spend the entire day there as a matter of principle, so show his utter disregard for the Jewish religion."

He declares it "tragic that the Temple presidency has gone by default to a man so little worthy of it."

The letter is careful to state that it is Dr. Lewis' personal opinion and therefore is publishable statement. However, I always prefer to publish both sides and hereby tender to you an invitation to answer this particular charge of Dr. Lewis' in a letter not to exceed 225 words, the length of the Rabbi's own letter.

May I hear from you immediately?

Sincerely yours,
G. M. COHEN.

Publisher,
The Jewish Post.

Mr. Goldberg Replies

To the Editor:

Your letter of June 4 is very gracious in tendering me the courtesy of an invitation to answer the outrageously libellous letter of Dr. Lewis. I commend your discretion in writing to me before publishing it. That he describes his statements as his personal opinion does not make them less libellous or more publishable. If you conclude to publish his remarks, you do so at your own and his peril. I find it difficult to understand why he should choose your paper as a vehicle for libel, instead of using his own—OPINION Magazine. Why does he not publish the letters I have written to Assume, for the moment, that his delightful charges against me are true. What conceivable difference can that make? My answer to Dr. Freehof is either valid or not valid. If it is valid, what matters it who made the answer? If it is not valid, why does not Dr. Lewis prove that it is not valid by disclosing the errors in my reasoning? As he attacks me, and not my answer, we must conclude that he has no answer to my answer, and that my answer is valid. That is all that matters. It is high time that the American Jewish press shall stop arguing personalities and shall devote its space to discussing issues.

This is a reply to your courteous note, not to Lewis. He deserves none. Nor can I answer a letter when I have seen only sketchy excerpts. It is enough to say that the excerpts are scurrilous falsehoods. I have lived 22 years in New York City and 25 years in Sioux City. My character and reputation need no defense. They are without blemish. If my life were not guided by higher spiritual and ethical standards than those of Lewis, I should feel quite ashamed of myself.

If I missed some services during the Lewis ministry here, it was because I ran off, not to my office, but to classical literature for the spiritual sustenance that I did not derive from his ministry. For 7 years before Lewis, and for 5 years after Lewis, I have rarely missed a religious service in our Temple. His 12 years are the void in my Temple life.

If I have exceeded your prescribed 225 words, please bear in mind that it is quicker to make dirt than to clean it up.

Cordially,
LOUIS S. GOLDBERG.
Sioux City, Iowa.

MARSH & MARSH, Attorneys
COMPLAINT FOR DIVORCE

State of Indiana, Marion County, ss: In the Superior Court of Marion County, in the State of Indiana.

No. B-32209.
Ruby Beetzold vs. Cyril A. Beetzold.
Be it known, that on the 7th day of June, 1944, the above named plaintiff, by her attorneys, filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court of Marion County, in the State of Indiana, her complaint against the above named defendant Cyril A. Beetzold and the said plaintiff having also filed in said clerk's office the affidavit of a competent person, showing that the residence of the defendant upon diligent inquiry, is unknown, and the defendant is not a resident of the State of Indiana, and that said cause of action is for divorce and that the defendant is a necessary party thereto and whereas said plaintiff having by endorsement on said complaint required said defendant to appear in said court, and answer or demur thereto on the 5th day of September, 1944.

Now, therefore, by order of said court, said defendant last above named is hereby notified of the filing and pendency of said complaint against him and that unless he appear and answer or demur thereto at the calling of said cause on the 5th day of September, 1944, the same being the 2nd judicial day of a term of said court, to be begun and held at the court house in the city of Indianapolis, on the 1st Monday in September, 1944, said complaint and the matters and things therein contained and alleged, will be heard and determined in his absence.

The Editor's Chair

So many rabbis write in to tell us how much they enjoy The Post, and a good deal of their praise is really extreme. So I wonder why more of them don't help out and really make The Post the kind of a medium for public expression I hope it will become in time. For instance, Rabbi Robert P. Jacobs of Asheville, N. C., got up a splendid reply to Painton's Reader Digest article, and it was printed in the same form as the Digest, with the small page and the layout as is familiar to any Digest reader. One of these he sent to me, and the thought could not help but come to me, that if only had he sent his reply to me for publication, not only would he have saved the printing expense, but in addition he would have been able to do so much more effectively what he is trying to do. For it is true, that The Post probably has a wider reading audience of the top leadership than any other Jewish publication in the United States. This may be a broad statement, but anyone who has ever written for The Post knows it to be true. We get an immediate reaction on almost anything we print, and rarely a week goes by but that we get inquiries for this or that article.

If you still don't believe me, then notice our "Freedom of the Press" section each week. The letters come from all over the nation. And when one person says something is white, then another person writes in to say it is black, and so on.

So The Post could really make a contribution to Jewish life in America if its pages were to come to be looked upon as a trading ground for ideas, a sort of market place for discussion. I really think we've made a start along this line. So the next time you sit down to write me a note of commendation, don't do it. Instead take part in the many discussions in our columns and see if we can't do this thing together. Build The Post into an instrument for real service.

There was a cogent paragraph or two in the K. A. M. News of a recent date, that bears reprinting. It's by Rabbi Jacob J. Weinstein, whom, although I've never met, I'm indebted to for encouragement. Here it is, and see if you don't agree with my appraisal:

"Inally, religion, like any good skill, requires constant practice. There is no greater myth than that of the natural born athlete. Beware of the man who counts on the stimulation of competition, or

Indiana Republicans Taking Long Chance With Lyons

THE Republican party in Indiana must have a lot of confidence in itself and its chances for victory in the November election, when it makes the move, which easily could mean committing suicide, of naming Robert W. Lyons, national Republican Committeeman.

For Mr. Lyons and his background, which is enough to cast a reflection on every man in Indiana running under the Republican banner, are anathema, not only to the Jewish citizens of this State, the small number of whose votes cannot mean anything one way or another in an election, but to the Catholic and colored citizens of Indiana as well.

Mr. Lyons was not merely a Klan member lured into the organization by mob psychology and the tinselled attractiveness of a secret organization. No. He was the treasurer. He knew what he was doing.

The Klan in Indiana was as powerful as it was, probably more so in our state than in any other north of the Mason and Dixon line, because of Mr. Lyons and the men who were with him in the ruling clique.

John Lauer, who it seems engineered the suspicious election by which Mr. Lyons was elected, has attempted to slough off the implications of the election. But not only he, but Mr. Lyons too, owes it to the people of Indiana, to issue a statement. Let them attempt to explain to the voters if they can. If not, then let them bear the consequences of their action.

Fear No Longer Mark of American Jewish Scene

PERHAPS Max Lerner's association with the Jewish problem is of too recent vintage for him to have gained the proper perspective, but in this paper's opinion he is reading the wrong interpretation of the American Jewish scene when he calls attention to "the terrific toll which the Fascists have already taken of our pride and courage."

Mr. Lerner's observations are just several years old. There was a period between 1933 and the present, when cowardice was the mark of the American Jewish community, but the American Jew of today is of a different spirit. Perhaps events have made him so, but The Post prefers to believe that once having fallen to the low estate of being afraid of every Fascist shadow, the American Jew of today is ready and willing to go down fighting, but a fight he will definitely make. Yet he is fully aware of all the implications of the many signs about him pointing to an increase of insecurity in his civil position.

Anyone who has attended meetings of national Jewish groups, or for that matter talked with local Jewish leaders, would say as Mr. Lerner has that "a great many have lost courage." For in truth, exactly the opposite is true. The Jew sees his peril, but he intends to fight the issue through. And he is prepared to fight for exactly the same reason as advanced by Mr. Lerner: "... as Americans we owe a duty to this country of ours. And that is to think in terms of its whole national welfare and to speak out without fear or hesitation against any group threatening the nation ... We do not come as a Jewish minority begging for protection. We are Americans consulting as to the best way of protecting the whole fabric of American life."

Current Comment

Archbishop of York Utterly in Error, Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman Says in an Editorial in The Jewish Ledger of Hartford Conn.—A dispatch comes from London that the Archbishop of York, who had recently been visiting in the United States, upon his return to London charged that "there is vigorous Jewish propaganda against Britain in New York on the grounds that she has broken her pledge to the Jews." The Archbishop of York (who is to be distinguished from the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. William Temple) reveals a queer streak of reasoning within him. He reminds us of the man who is beating a child while ordering the child to be quiet and not to cry out. It is usually the complaint of those who are in the wrong, who are afraid of the crying because it is an indictment of them since they are the ones who are doing the beating and causing the injury.

Did the Archbishop of York expect that the Jews would swallow the White Paper of 1939 without a murmur of protest? Did the good Archbishop believe that the world would be permitted to remain ignorant of Britain's violation of her word of honor pledged in the Balfour Declaration? To be sure, the Archbishop did say to a group of Protestant clergymen, when he was in New York last month, that "Great Britain never had any intention of handing over Palestine to the Jews" and added that all that Britain had promised was that "within Palestine there would be a home for the Jews." Did the Archbishop really believe that people with any sense of moral responsibility would take that dubious interpretation at its face value? And did he believe that he was rendering a service when he gave that peculiar non-ethical interpretation of the Balfour Declaration and of England's commitment under the mandate? And, seeing that Britain, through a process of successive whitening down by its colonial administrators, had been guilty of a breach of trust, it seems to us that it is ill-becoming in a religious teacher, especially one who has achieved the dignity of being the Archbishop of York, the second ranking primate of the Church of England, to become an apologist for and a defender of the notorious duplicity of the colonial office.

The Archbishop is utterly in error when he reports that American Jews are against Britain. We suggest respectfully that Great Britain owes a lot to American Jews. In Britain's present conflict Britain has few better, more loyal friends than the Jews of America are. But it is not part of friendship to condone and overlook all the evils to which a friend may be given. It may be the part of friendship to point these out and to appeal from Britain-in-error to the soul of Britain, which few groups admire more than do the Jews. Jews do not believe that the Colonial Office is a reflection of the soul of England and Jews are not alone amongst the friends of England who have that lack of faith.

Somehow, the Archbishop of York, as an apologist for and defender of injustice, is a saddening spectacle, especially when he asks that Jews agrieved, to use the sentence of the street, "take it and like it." Somehow that attitude is unbecoming in a teacher of religion. It is painfully disappointing.

the mysterious 'know-how' in his blood, or the rabbit's foot, or the weakness of his opponents. I received one of the most instructive lessons of my life when I saw the great Rachmanioff, during a train journey, take a dummy piano board out of his suitcase and practice finger exercises for several hours on end. So in religion, prayer and worship must become regular habits. Even those who find religion in the woods, or at a symphony concert or in doing charity must do these regularly until it becomes an unconscious and smooth response of the entire being. Many people who claim that they get religion in the woods, get poison ivy instead. Too many who claim that music is their religion don't know a mazurka from a bazooka. Many who claim that doing good is their religion, somehow do good only for themselves. The year-end Jews who come to the synagogue only on Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur get religious indigestion or spiritual charlie-horses for their trouble.

"As with sports, so with religion. The rewards are apparent only after a while and the best rewards are incidental by-products, as it were. The happiest reward of both religion and sports is the relaxation of the spirit, the renewed and calm energy which it gives one for the routine of his business and for the responsibilities of his home. At their highest, they both reward man by conferring on him the true Sabbath—that, the equilibrium of the spirit."

Right now there are two or three Jewish study groups meeting in various parts of the city composed of people from individual congregations, and in the past, various congregations have launched schools for adult Jewish studies. All of them are doing and have done excellent work but for next fall, how about a city-wide school for adult Jewish study conducted by all the city rabbis, and with a lot of push and publicity behind it. The school if it did nothing else would serve as a course of instruction for our Jewish leadership, which even today ranges from those who keep strictly orthodox homes to those who still go in for brightly-lit trees at Christmas time. It seems to me that this work falls directly in the field of our rabbis. As a suggestion, the school could run from 7:45 to 9:30, with three sessions. There would be courses in Jewish history, in the study of the prophets, in current Jewish problems and so on. I'd like to see it tried, and believe that the community would be surprised at the response. If no one else does it, I think I'll get The Post to put it on.

Rinna Grossman's articles must be creating something of a stir in Anglo-Jewish press circles. Several papers, without so much as a "may I please," have reprinted some of her stuff, but at the bottom of the article, they do say, "The Jewish Post." But the payoff is the paper which stole her column and didn't even give us a credit line. Well, we pay our writers, and we do this so we can have material that other papers don't have. I couldn't mind when she is quoted, and so forth, but further than that, I think I'll have to call a halt.

ORDER OF RED STAR, CROSS OF VALOR GO POSTHUMOUSLY TO FIGHTING RABBI

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

MOSCOW—Moscow newspapers this week carry a report of how Rabbi Isaac Zevada of Sandomierz, Poland, and his brother-in-law, Mendel Kohn of Lodz, joined the Polish Kosciuszko Division as volunteers and fell in the division's first battle against the Germans on the Byelorussian front. The Soviet military authorities have posthumously awarded Rabbi Zevada the Order of the Red Star and the Cross of Valor.

The two joined the Polish division in Russia as soon as it was formed. At first everyone in the unit looked upon the two orthodox Jews with surprise. Their long beards attracted special attention. They refused to eat non-kosher food and received dry rations and prepared their own food. The astonishment grew as the rabbi and his brother-in-law, given the right as volunteers to choose their branch of service, elected to join a mortar unit.

The two religious Jews showed themselves during training to be among the best soldiers in the division. The rabbi was promoted to a sergeant's rank and later made commander of a mortar platoon where he won a reputation as a sharpshooter and excellent commander. "I owe it to my Sandomir congregation!" he said when commended by his superior authorities.

The first to fall in battle was Mendel Kohn, who had been a textile manufacturer in Lodz. He was struck in the head by a German mine splinter. Rabbi Zevada had neither the time nor the opportunity to bury him with the customary Hebrew rites because the battle was raging and growing steadily in intensity.

"With his long beard and his locks flying," the story in the Moscow press relates, "Rabbi Zevada, during the battle, rushed from one mortar to another, giving orders and helping the crews. The Polish division had already gained the initiative and went over to offensive action. Rabbi Zevada, attacking together with the infantry, was one of the first to leap from his trench to lead his men against the enemy lines."

In this battle, the first victory for the Polish division, the rabbi-soldier was killed. He was buried in the Byelorussian village of Lenino, on the road between Mohilev and Orsha. A simple wooden plaque on his grave, written in Yiddish, Polish and Russian, reads: "Here lies the body of 53-year-old fighter Isaac Zevada. He died the death of the brave in the first battle of the Polish Tadeusz Kosciuszko Division against the German invaders. Three nationalities render him honor in simple words. His memory will remain forever in the hearts of his people and his country."

Between You and Me

THE PROPAGANDA FRONT

It seems that some interested forces in the United States have begun an organized effort to get the Arab point of view on Palestine into the American press under all circumstances. This can be seen not only from the article on Palestine which appeared in the Readers' Digest, but also from interviews with leading Arabs which the non-Jewish new agencies are suddenly carrying. The latest "interview" now being distributed to American newspapers is one with Tewfik Pasha Abou Hoda. In case you don't know who he is, you are told that he holds the post of "Prime Minister of Transjordan." The innocent American reader does not know that this post means exactly nothing, because there is only one person in Transjordan who amounts to anything, and that is the British resident there. The reader, therefore, is impressed to hear the "Prime Minister of Transjordan" declare that all he fears is "Jewish imperialism." To make things even more dramatic, the naive American correspondent who thinks that he got a "great story" by interviewing a "prime minister," tells the American readers that this Pasha "does not look as if he is afraid of anyone, but says he is afraid of the Jews." But this Pasha is afraid of another thing. He fears "that the people of America are inclined to use their heart more than their head" in the Palestine question. And he tells the American people that the Jewish claims on Palestine "are as ridiculous as would be the claim of Red Indians to the land of the United States". The other silly things which this "prime minister" says about the Arab-Jewish question are not even worth quoting, but Zionist leaders should be interested in watching this kind of trash and in exposing those in the United States who inspire it.

FREEDOM OF PRESS

Watch for the forthcoming issue of the Contemporary Jewish Record which is the official organ of the American Jewish Committee. You will find there an article written by such a leading figure in the Zionist movement as Emmanuel Neumann on no other subject than Zionist strategy in Washington. Times certainly change. . . . There was quite a lot of excitement in Palestine over a cable sent from

New York by a non-Jewish news agency. . . . The cable reported that the governments of Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria had agreed to permit the emigration of all Jews from their countries and that the War Refugee Board was making arrangements to take them out by overland transportation. Given as source of this news was Dean Alfange, leader of the newly-formed American Liberal Party. No sooner did the cable appear in the Hebrew papers in Palestine, than crowds began to besiege the offices of Jewish organizations in order to have their relatives in the pro-Nazi countries placed on the rescue lists. In vain did the Jewish Agency announce that the report was false and that no such lists were being compiled. The crowds did not want to take no for an answer. Most interesting, however, is the fact that Dean Alfange did not even know that news of this kind was released to a news agency in New York in his name. He is now busy investigating the incident in order to establish who misused his name, thus giving false hopes to the Jews in Palestine. . . . And speaking of Mr. Alfange, we understand that he intends to withdraw from the Committee to Save the Jews of Europe of which he is one of the chairmen.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Whether one believes in the Yiddish press, or not, I would advise him to read Oswald Garrison Villard's new book "The Disappearing Daily" just published by Knopf. Jewish readers of this book will certainly feel proud of the chapter in which Villard deals with the Jewish press and of the tribute which he pays to the Jewish Daily Forward. Not only does he emphasize the contribution which this paper has made toward the Americanization of the Jewish immigrants, but he bluntly cites the Forward as an example for the entire American press. To him the Forward is the ideal expression of a newspaper that is not influenced by motives of profit. He devotes many pages to show how the Forward, as a non-profit-making institution, uses its profits for various causes. In pointing to the weakness of the general press in America, Villard goes out of his way to express regret at the fact that the leading New York newspapers, though devoting much space to

J.D.C. BUYS $500,000 OF LEND-LEASE FOOD, CLOTHING TO SEND TO RUSSIA

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—American lend-lease authorities in the Middle East have concluded an arrangement with the Joint Distribution

Committee which provides for the transfer of $500,000 of lend-lease stocks in Teheran for the J.D.C.'s parcel service for Jewish refugees in Russia.

An announcement to this effect was made here this week at a press conference addressed by Dr. J. L. Magnes and Charles Passman who are acting as J.D.C. representatives in the Middle East. The J. D. C. paid the $500,000 to the U. S. Treasury. The stock included 40,000 pairs of shoes and 30,000 blankets, also overcoats, suits, powdered milk, canned food and other commodities.

ton some fifteen years ago on the 276th anniversary of the landing of Jews in the United States. But some will be puzzled by the fact that Bloom, speaking on his work for refugees, takes complete credit for the establishment by President Roosevelt of the War Refugee Board. . . . Do you remember Carl Alpert, editor of the New Palestine, who joined Uncle Sam's Armed Forces? Well, he is as busily active in Jewish affairs as his wife and he addressed recent meetings of the Jacksonville Chapter of Hadassah. . . . His wife, who moved to Jacksonville when Alpert entered the Army, is a Hebrew teacher at the local Jewish Center. . . . and Carl himself is working on a new pamphlet for the Z. O. A.

Anti-Jewish Riots Flare In Argentina

By TOM NELSON

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

MONTEVIDEO—Intensified anti-Semitic propaganda in Argentina, which is tolerated by the government, culminated this week in organized terror against Jews in the province of Entre Rios and in a call for pogroms in Buenos Aires.

Reliable reports reaching here from Argentina reveal that crowds attacked Jewish stores in various sections of Entre Rios and smashed windows of Jewish homes. The province is in the hands of a clique known to be outspokenly anti-Semitic.

So serious were the attacks on the Jews, that the Federal governor of Entre Rios was compelled to issue the following statement: "My attention has been drawn to the fact that acts of violence have been committed against the Jewish population and that the Jews have suffered damages. Such acts can only be carried out by irresponsible elements. I have issued strict orders, and the Jewish population may be assured that they will enjoy the rights granted by our constitution to all those who respect the laws of Argentina."

The call for a pogrom in Buenos Aires was issued by anti-Semitic groups in connection with the "Day of Resistance" which democratic organizations in the country have proclaimed for June 7 as an expression of protest against the muzzling of the Argentine press by the government and the suppression of free speech. On that day stores and offices of those sympathizing with the passive resistance movement will be closed and work stoppages will occur.

Mark Benes' Birthday With All Czech Concert

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

TEL AVIV—The 60th birthday of President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia was marked here at a concert of the Palestine Symphony Orchestra featuring the works of the Czech composers Smetana and Dvorak. For this concert and for the one given in Jerusalem this week, the orchestra was led by a Czechoslovakian Jewish conductor named Singer. A park named after Benes is to be established at one of the Jewish settlements, it was announced during the concert.

Our Film Folks of HOLLYWOOD

(c) 1943, Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD — Robert Riskin, chief of the film division of OWI, is thinking beyond D-Day. Returning from England, he seeks the aid of all studios to produce win-the-peace films. He needs the help of writers, technicians, producers, etc. to get documentary and entertainment pictures ready for liberated territories . . . to acquaint the people of Nazi-occupied lands with a democratic way of life. His plan is working with much success in North Africa and Italy. Films are titled in twenty-two languages including Japanese—just in case. In areas where the populace is illiterate, a narrator tells the story. Revenue from Hollywood products in North Africa far exceeds anything ever approximated in the past.

Remember Kenneth (Mielziner)

MacKenna? In 1929 and 1930 he was playing leading-man roles in flickers. Later he became a first-rate director. Now he is mounting the military ladder . . . was promoted from captain to major in the Signal Corps. He is with the photographic unit on Long Island.

Al Jolson and Harry Akst, his accompanist, inspired by their contacts with the doughboys overseas, composed a song—"The Kid I Have Never Seen." Idea germinated from the boys' desire to see that new baby back home. The ditty will be used in the film, "Anchors Aweigh." A music publisher heard about the song, but got his "notes" mixed . . . wrote Jolson that he would be interested in marketing his tune, "Sultana." That was no song, said Al, that was his endorsement of a sun tan lotion.

After nine months of research, gathering material, and consultations, Edward Golden is ready to begin production on "The Master Race." Golden, you will recall, harvested a fabulous box-office gross from "Hitler's Children." The current film will shed some light on what goes on inside the craniums of the "master race" which causes them to turn the world into a bloody cauldron every couple of decades. Idea has received okays from the War Department and the OWI.

Funniest faux pas of the week: On the call sheet for next day's shooting were the names, Fannie Brice—Baby Snooks. A green hand in the casting department looked over the list . . . made a note. Next morning Fannie Brice showed up, followed closely by—a school teacher! the conscientious employee, complying with the law, was providing education for Baby Snooks while she was absent from school.

JEWISH NEWS

There is an atmosphere of optimism in Zionist Circles, based on reports from London. But we predict that before the next two months are over that optimism will have evaporated. The British Colonial Office's scheme for partition will propose a Jewish Palestine so minuscule that even Dr. Magnes will be horrified. . . . The Committee for a Jewish Army, alias the Emergency Committee to Rescue the Jews of Europe, is suing Pierre van Paassen, Kenneth Leslie and The Protestant magazine to the tune of $100,000. Seems to us like a rather strange culmination to the Committee's insistence that van Paassen did not write the letter, published in The Protestant, which blasted the Irgunists sky-high. . . . Sholom Asch's appeal to the American intellectuals on behalf of Jews suffering from anti-Semitism on the part of the Polish government-in-exile will be published as a booklet within the next few weeks. . . . Both political conventions will be asked to endorse a plan to outlaw anti-Semitism in America.

OUR ARMED FORCES

Congratulations to Herman Schulman, the noted attorney and chairman of public relations for the Zionist Emergency Council, on the graduation of his son from Annapolis. . . . Anna Rosenberg, New York regional director of the WMC, also finds time to serve on a committee that provides entertainment for soldiers hospitalized in this country. Mrs. Rosenberg's son, Thomas J., is a lieutenant in the Air Corps, on active service in the European war theatre. . . . The only Civil War veteran to participate in a New York City Memorial Day Parade, Daniel Harris, is the sole survivor of the over 8,000 Jewish soldiers who fought in the Union Army. . . . Private Irwin Shaw's new play, which deals with the North African campaign, has received the censor's okay for production. . . . Highest scholastic average ever attained in the Medical Administrative Corps Officer Candidate School is the mark of 98.07, scored by 2nd Lieutenant Irvin H. Schlesinger, now on active duty abroad.

PRECEDENT

Back in the continental United States for a well-earned leave is Army Chaplain Harry Richmond, who has been at his post at Pearl Harbor right along, although his family was evacuated long ago. Incidentally, it wasn't until he arrived here that the Chaplain made the acquaintance of his youngest child, born in the East some months after Pearl Harbor. But what we started to tell you is that immediately upon his arrival in New York Chaplain Richmond did something that his colleagues may well take as a precedent: He called a meeting of all the parents of local boys he had seen in Hawaii, and gave them detailed reports of their sons.

INTER-FAITH DEPT.

Aime Palliere, the French priest who became a rabbi, and who authored "The Unknown Sanctuary", has died in a concentration camp in Poland, where the Gestapo sent him. . . . Morris J. Solomon, member of a Brooklyn yarn firm and active in Jewish philanthropic affairs in that borough, has taken over the chairmanship of the Catholic Seamen's Institute's current campaign for funds. . . . Just as we were about to announce proudly that the New York Yankee baseball team has an outfielder named Ed Levy, our illusions are destroyed by Winchell's assurance that Ed is an Irishman. . . . The film "Mrs. Skeffington," which is being advertised as a story of love and romance, really deals with intermarriage, but none too intelligently. . . . aside to the editors of the Universal Jewish Encyclopedia: No less a personage than Vice President Henry A. Wallace used your excellent reference work to look up Baal Shem, whom he considers "one of the great prophets of the common man". The Vice President recently told Rabbi Louis Novick of Washington that he believes that in times like these the Baal Shem doctrine can be very useful not only to Jewish people but to people everywhere, adding: "His simple preaching of hope and joy under the most difficult of conditions must never be forgotten."

ABOUT PEOPLE

In a recent private poll held among editors of large American dailies Dr. Stephen S. Wise was selected as the most popular figure among Jewish leaders in this country. Have we told you, by the way, that Dr. Wise is anticipating another grandchild, which will be presented to him by Justice Justine Wise Polier of New York's Children's Court? . . . Add things we never knew before: That the wife of department store biggie and War Refugee Board representative Ira Hirschmann, and co-founder with him of the New Friends of Music concerts, is the famed concert pianist Hortense Monath. . . . A new war song, telling the story of a German soldier's wife, has been written by Lion Feuchtwanger, and Kurt Weill has composed the music for it. But at last reports no English translation of the lyric had as yet been made. . . . Strange but true: Jacob Epstein's latest bronze, "Girl with the Gardenias," failed to create a stir in London. . . . The wedding dress Paulette Goddard wore when she married Capt. Burgess Meredith was a neat little number she picked up on her recent USO tour—in Eretz Israel, to be precise.

The battle for the World is on!

Girl Wins King Gustav Fellowship

Miss Nancy Reid, a junior in the College of Science, Literature and Arts, receives from Dr. Walter Coffey, president of the University of Minnesota, the annual King Gustav Interfaith Fellowship for outstanding contribution to campus interfaith relations. This fellowship, established by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Commission in honor of King Gustav of Sweden as a token of appreciation for what his country did to save the Jews of Denmark from Nazi extermination, was awarded for the first time at the annual commencement exercises. A similar fellowship in honor of King Christian of Denmark has been created at the University of Wisconsin.

46 Rabbis Protest Use Of Name by New Group

Special

NEW YORK—Forty-six American rabbis today protested against the use of their names in literature distributed by the American League for a Free Palestine, and denounced the League as "a denial of Jewish history and a perversion of the fundamental concept of the unity of the Jewish people and of Zionist aims."

In a formal statement the forty-six rabbis pointed out that more than a year ago they had signed a proclamation circulated by the Committee for a Jewish Army, but that in a recent booklet published by the American League for a Free Palestine the proclamation is reprinted and their names listed as endorsers.

Lynch Bill Dies in Subcommittee

Special

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Lynch Bill, which would have prohibited the sending of material through the mails falsely attacking racial and religious groups, has been laid to rest without any funeral services. The measure has been referred back to the subcommittee for further consideration, which is a diplomatic way of saying it is dead.

Although almost all Jewish groups without exception urged passage of the bill, some of those who opposed it on the grounds that it would only aggravate the problem it tried to solve, were the American Civil Liberties Union, headed by Arthur Garfield Hays and the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People.

Says 55,000 Jews Face Starvation or Conversion

TEL AVIV — Fifty-thousand Jews in the Arab kingdom of Yemen on the Red Sea face the alternatives of dying from starvation or becoming converts to Islam, the president of the Yemen Settlers Association here, told a press conference, appealing for steps to rescue them.

New Congregation Planned in Houston

Special

HOUSTON, Texas — Plans are progressing for the formation of a second Reform congregation in this city. The only other Reform congregation is that of Beth Israel, which has created so much notice in national Jewish circles by the adoption of a set of "basic principles".

The first meeting leading to the formation of the new congregation was held Thursday night.

At the annual congregational meeting of Temple Beth Israel, Leopold L. Meyer was reelected to a third term as president.

He disclosed that about 3,000 Yemenite Jews are camped in the harbor city of Aden under indescribable conditions awaiting an opportunity to emigrate to Palestine. About 200 of this group are expected to arrive here this week, he said, adding that about 3,500 Jews from Yemen have reached here in the past few years.

Death for Illegal Entrance Is New Rumanian Law
By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WHY THE ZIONISTS MUST DEMAND JEWISH COMMONWEALTH AND NO LESS

Editor's Note: I have often tried to explain why the Zionists could not afford to yield on the question of a Jewish Commonwealth. In that connection, I want to quote in full an editorial from the Bulletin of the East Midwood Jewish Center, of Brooklyn, N.Y., which, it seems to me, is as clear an exposition of the situation as I've read. The editorial, according to the masthead, was written by one J. B. Rosenfeld, and if he has any kind of a background in Jewish affairs, then he can write a weekly column for me any time and for pay. I have been looking around for a regular columnist, on the order of Dorothy Thompson or Samuel Grafton, and although I know I won't be able to find anybody of their calibre, yet I just might be lucky enough to engage one who over the years could grow in stature with The Post.

Anyway, here's Mr. Rosenfeld's piece:

Professor Oscar Janowsky's address to our local Flatbush Zionist District some weeks ago raised several questions which require a careful going over.

His central theme was based on the premise that the achievement of unity in Jewish ranks is of prime importance and that the failure of the American Jewish Conference to meet the viewpoint of the American Jewish Committee on the Palestine issue has done our cause incalculable harm. The oft repeated observation that the Conference adopted the Palestine Resolution by an overwhelming majority in a wholly democratic manner, Professor Janowsky brushed aside as immaterial. The rule of democratic procedure in which the minority submits to the will of the majority does not obtain in a voluntary association, he noted.

The plain fact of the matter is that the contending viewpoints are irreconcilable. Mr. Mordecai Grossman, in the April 1944 issue of the Contemporary Jewish Record, writes "To the American Jewish Conference the role of Palestine is central in the rebuilding of Jewish life on sound foundation. The principal objectives of its program in regard to Palestine are the attainment of a Jewish majority and the re-creation of a Jewish Commonwealth."

"The American Jewish Committee," continues Mr. Grossman, "views the possible role of Palestine as important but not central in post-war Jewish rehabilitation. Its program makes no commitment in regard to political objectives nor with regard to the question of a Jewish majority."

Zionism can make no compromise with the Committee's viewpoint and still remain a vital political force. The question Prof. Janowsky poses, of reconciling and combining opposites for the sake of a specious unity, is untenable. It has within it the germ of the appeasement psychology and would not, were we Zionists to adopt it, bring us any more of the blessings of unity than that which we are able to achieve by sticking to our avowed objectives. The experience of Zionism under the mandate runs counter to the making of concessions. Our rights, right from the beginning, have been continually whittled away. First, instead of both Trans-Jordan and Cis-Jordan, we settled for Cis-Jordan. Then the wording of the Balfour Declaration was reinterpreted and then re-reinterpreted. Then it was the Partition Plan. In these, and on other manifestations of Realpolitik, we were requested and then told to make concessions. We did, always fancying that this one gesture on our part would be the end of the mumbo-jumbo. We always learned—or did we—that, in reality, all we were doing was cutting off the heads of a hydra.

In its broadest sense, it is irrational to renounce the acquisition of what we want for fear of losing it. As a matter of policy we cannot afford to take stock of all the silly fancies, the grotesque suppositions, the utterly irrelevant reflections of any or all groups either within or without our ranks. Since everyone cannot be fully satisfied it is obvious that each individual must conceive himself obliged to submit his private opinion and actions to the judgement of the greater number of his associates. The principle of democratic procedure—and democracy in any form is essentially voluntary—must prevail. Any group that does not abide by it must bear the onus of spreading discord and not, as Prof. Janowsky intimated, the other way round.

In case your husband likes herring you no longer have the excuse that you don't know how to fix it.

MARINIRTE (Pickled) HERRING Number 1

12 Milch herring, whole or sliced
4 large onions, sliced
2 lemons, sliced
3 cups vinegar
2 tablespoons dry mustard
2 tablespoons pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
12 bay leaves
1 large apple, grated, if desired
Soak herring over night. Drain, remove entrails, but reserve milch. Slice, if desired. Place in a stone jar in layers, with bay leaves and slices of onion and lemon between each layer of herring. Mix vinegar, mustard, pepper, sugar, and grated apple if desired, and pour over herring to cover. Rub milch through a sieve into the liquid. Cover jar, and let stand in a cool place 3 to 6 days until herring is pickled.

Number 2: with Sour Cream

6 milch herring
1 lemon, sliced
2 onions, sliced
2 bay leaves
6 peppercorns
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
1 cup sour cream
Soak herring in cold water several hours. Clean, skin and bone them, and reserve milch. Slice the herring, if desired. Place in a stone jar in layers, with lemon and onion slices, and bay leaves and peppercorns. Mash the milch with the vinegar and sugar through a sieve onto the herring in jar. Add sour cream. Let stand in a cold place 48 hours.

For those of you who didn't watch your mother closely, here is the recipe for Blintzes in black and white.

BLINTZES

1 to 3 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk or water
1 cup (about) flour
blintz filling
Break the egg or eggs into a bowl, add salt, and stir the milk or water into the eggs, blending the yolks and whites. Gradually stir in enough flour to form a smooth thin batter. Pour onto a hot, greased frying pan, about 6 inches wide, just enough batter to form a very thin sheet, tipping the frying pan from side to side so that the batter spreads over it uniformly. Fry over a slow fire on one side only, until the top of the sheet is dry and blistered. Turn sheet out onto a cloth, fried side up.

Fry 5 or 6 sheets in this way. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling in the centre of each sheet, and fold the sheet in over the filling to form an envelope. Repeat until all of batter has been used. Fry in a liberal amount of fat until the blintzes are golden brown on both sides. If desired, the blintzes may be filled, then kept in the refrigerator for several hours before frying.

FILLINGS FOR BLINTZES Number 1: Cheese Blintzes

1 pound cottage cheese
1 egg, or 2 egg yolks, beaten
Salt, sugar and cinnamon to taste

1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ cup raisins or ground nuts, if desired.

Press cheese through a sieve, and mix with remaining ingredients. Serve cheese blintzes with sugar and cinnamon or with sour cream.

Number 2: Apple Blintzes

¾ cup apples, chopped fine
1 tablespoon ground nuts
Sugar and cinnamon to taste
White of 1 egg
2 teaspoons lemon juice, if desired.

Mix ingredients well. Serve apple blintzes with sugar and cinnamon.

For that picnic basket (or just a back lawn supper) here are a few ideas for sandwich fillings.

FLAVOURED BUTTER SPREADS

Flavoured butter spreads are prepared from butter softened and blended with other ingredients

chopped very fine or mashed to a paste: as Chili Butter, Horseradish Butter, Mustard Butter, Olive Butter, Parsley Butter, Pimento Butter, Sardine Butter, Watercress Butter, and others. If desired, they may be seasoned with lemon juice, onion juice or any pungent sauce. Practically anything edible may be combined with butter to make a flavoured butter spread, providing it is first chopped very fine or mashed to a paste.

CHEESE MIXTURES

Number 1

1 cup cottage or cream cheese
2 tablespoons cream, sweet or sour
¼ cup chopped green peppers, or
½ cup chopped nuts, or
½ cup chopped pineapple, or

How about a cup of cold beet borsht? Sounds refreshing and cool and you have two recipes from which to choose.

BEET BORSHT

Serve borsht cold with slices of hard-cooked eggs, boiled potatoes, cucumbers or raw onions.

Number 1

Grate, dice or cut into shreds as many beets as desired. Place in pot with cold or hot water to cover, cover pot, and let beets cook until tender. Add lemon juice, salt and sugar to make sweet and sour to taste, and let simmer 5 to 15 minutes longer. Let cool, and when lukewarm add sour cream to taste. Chill thoroughly.

Number 2

6 large beets
2 large carrots, if desired
3 pints (about) water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 or more egg yolks
1 tablespoon cold water

1 cup sour cream

Grate or dice beets and carrot, or cut into shreds. Place in pot with water, cold or hot, cover pot, and let cook until tender. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt, and let simmer 5 to 15 minutes longer.

Beat yolks with tablespoon cold water, place in a bowl, and pour hot soup into beaten yolks very gradually, stirring constantly, so that they will not curdle. Add sour cream, and chill thoroughly. Or, instead of pouring the hot soup into the beaten yolks, chill the soup and, when ready to serve, beat the egg yolks with the sour cream, and add the cold soup.

Death for Illegal Entrance Is New Rumanian Law
By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
STOCKHOLM — Jews entering Rumania illegally will be sentenced to death, as will all other persons helping them to enter the country, it was announced this week over the Bucharest radio, which quoted a decree just issued by the pro-Nazi Rumanian Premier Ion Antonescu.

WHY THE ZIONISTS MUST DEMAND JEWISH COMMONWEALTH AND NO LESS

Editor's Note: I have often tried to explain why the Zionists could not afford to yield on the question of a Jewish Commonwealth. In that connection, I want to quote in full an editorial from the Bulletin of the East Midwood Jewish Center, of Brooklyn, N.Y., which, it seems to me, is as clear an exposition of the situation as I've read. The editorial, according to the masthead, was written by one J. B. Rosenfeld, and if he has any kind of a background in Jewish affairs, then he can write a weekly column for me any time and for pay. I have been looking around for a regular columnist, on the order of Dorothy Thompson or Samuel Grafton, and although I know I won't be able to find anybody of their calibre, yet I just might be lucky enough to engage one who over the years could grow in stature with The Post.

Anyway, here's Mr. Rosenfeld's piece:

Professor Oscar Janowsky's address to our local Flatbush Zionist District some weeks ago raised several questions which require a careful going over.

His central theme was based on the premise that the achievement of unity in Jewish ranks is of prime importance and that the failure of the American Jewish Conference to meet the viewpoint of the American Jewish Committee on the Palestine issue has done our cause incalculable harm. The oft repeated observation that the Conference adopted the Palestine Resolution by an overwhelming majority in a wholly democratic manner, Professor Janowsky brushed aside as immaterial. The rule of democratic procedure in which the minority submits to the will of the majority does not obtain in a voluntary association, he noted.

The plain fact of the matter is that the contending viewpoints are irreconcilable. Mr. Mordecai Grossman, in the April 1944 issue of the Contemporary Jewish Record, writes "To the American Jewish Conference the role of Palestine is central in the rebuilding of Jewish life on sound foundation. The principal objectives of its program in regard to Palestine are the attainment of a Jewish majority and the re-creation of a Jewish Commonwealth."

"The American Jewish Committee," continues Mr. Grossman, "views the possible role of Palestine as important but not central in post-war Jewish rehabilitation. Its program makes no commitment in regard to political objectives nor with regard to the question of a Jewish majority."

Zionism can make no compromise with the Committee's viewpoint and still remain a vital political force. The question Prof. Janowsky poses, of reconciling and combining opposites for the sake of a specious unity, is untenable. It has within it the germ of the appeasement psychology and would not, were we Zionists to adopt it, bring us any more of the blessings of unity than that which we are able to achieve by sticking to our avowed objectives. The experience of Zionism under the mandate runs counter to the making of concessions. Our rights, right from the beginning, have been continually whittled away. First, instead of both Trans-Jordan and Cis-Jordan, we settled for Cis-Jordan. Then the wording of the Balfour Declaration was reinterpreted and then re-reinterpreted. Then it was the Partition Plan. In these, and on other manifestations of Realpolitik, we were requested and then told to make concessions. We did, always fancying that this one gesture on our part would be the end of the mumbo-jumbo. We always learned—or did we—that, in reality, all we were doing was cutting off the heads of a hydra.

In its broadest sense, it is irrational to renounce the acquisition of what we want for fear of losing it. As a matter of policy we cannot afford to take stock of all the silly fancies, the grotesque suppositions, the utterly irrelevant reflections of any or all groups either within or without our ranks. Since everyone cannot be fully satisfied it is obvious that each individual must conceive himself obliged to submit his private opinion and actions to the judgement of the greater number of his associates. The principle of democratic procedure—and democracy in any form is essentially voluntary—must prevail. Any group that does not abide by it must bear the onus of spreading discord and not, as Prof. Janowsky intimated, the other way round.

In case your husband likes herring you no longer have the excuse that you don't know how to fix it.

MARINIRTE (Pickled) HERRING

Number 1

12 Milch herring, whole or sliced
4 large onions, sliced
2 lemons, sliced
3 cups vinegar
2 tablespoons dry mustard
2 tablespoons pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
12 bay leaves
1 large apple, grated, if desired
Soak herring over night. Drain, remove entrails, but reserve milch. Slice, if desired. Place in a stone jar in layers, with bay leaves and slices of onion and lemon between each layer of herring. Mix vinegar, mustard, pepper, sugar, and grated apple if desired, and pour over herring to cover. Rub milch through a sieve into the liquid. Cover jar, and let stand in a cool place 3 to 6 days until herring is pickled.

Number 2: with Sour Cream

6 milch herring
1 lemon, sliced
2 onions, sliced
2 bay leaves
6 peppercorns
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
1 cup sour cream

Soak herring in cold water several hours. Clean, skin and bone them, and reserve milch. Slice the herring, if desired. Place in a stone jar in layers, with lemon and onion slices, and bay leaves and peppercorns. Mash the milch with the vinegar and sugar through a sieve onto the herring in jar. Add sour cream. Let stand in a cold place 48 hours.

For those of you who didn't watch your mother closely, here is the recipe for Blintzes in black and white.

BLINTZES

1 to 3 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk or water
1 cup (about) flour
blintz filling

Break the egg or eggs into a bowl, add salt, and stir the milk or water into the eggs, blending the yolks and whites. Gradually stir in enough flour to form a smooth thin batter. Pour onto a hot, greased frying pan, about 6 inches wide, just enough batter to form a very thin sheet, tipping the frying pan from side to side so that the batter spreads over it uniformly. Fry over a slow fire on one side only, until the top of the sheet is dry and blistered. Turn sheet out onto a cloth, fried side up.

Fry 5 or 6 sheets in this way. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling in the centre of each sheet, and fold the sheet in over the filling to form an envelope. Repeat until all of batter has been used. Fry in a liberal amount of fat until the blintzes are golden brown on both sides. If desired, the blintzes may be filled, then kept in the refrigerator for several hours before frying.

FILLINGS FOR BLINTZES

Number 1: Cheese Blintzes

1 pound cottage cheese
1 egg, or 2 egg yolks, beaten
Salt, sugar and cinnamon to taste
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ cup raisins or ground nuts, if desired.

Press cheese through a sieve, and mix with remaining ingredients. Serve cheese blintzes with sugar and cinnamon or with sour cream.

Number 2: Apple Blintzes

¾ cup apples, chopped fine
1 tablespoon ground nuts
Sugar and cinnamon to taste
White of 1 egg
2 teaspoons lemon juice, if desired.

Mix ingredients well. Serve apple blintzes with sugar and cinnamon.

For that picnic basket (or just a back lawn supper) here are a few ideas for sandwich fillings.

Flavoured butter spreads are prepared from butter softened and blended with other ingredients

chopped very fine or mashed to a paste: as Chili Butter, Horseradish Butter, Mustard Butter, Olive Butter, Parsley Butter, Pimento Butter, Sardine Butter, Watercress Butter, and others. If desired, they may be seasoned with lemon juice, onion juice or any pungent sauce. Practically anything edible may be combined with butter to make a flavoured butter spread, providing it is first chopped very fine or mashed to a paste.

Number 1

1 cup cottage or cream cheese
2 tablespoons cream, sweet or sour
¼ cup chopped green peppers, or
½ cup chopped nuts, or
½ cup chopped pineapple, or
½ cup chopped olives, plain or stuffed

Paprika
Salt and pepper.

Work cheese and cream together until smooth, chop other ingredients desired very fine, and mix thoroughly.

SALMON MIXTURE

1 cup canned salmon
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard

Mayonnaise.

Remove skin and bones from salmon, and mash to a paste with its juice. Add seasonings, and enough mayonnaise to bind the mixture.

THE JUNIOR POST

For Boys and Girls
By RUTH PALLER

Dear Boys and Girls:

Every now and then, recently, we have been hearing about Jewish boys and girls in America being hurt by other children, synagogues being defaced and Jewish store windows broken by vandals right here in the United States.

It is hard to believe that the same things could be happening here that we are fighting to stop in Europe, but even here there are some people who do not believe in our American democracy.

There are two ways to meet such a problem if it should happen to us personally. One would be to bow our heads and take the insults or pain and sigh that this is the ill fortune of being Jewish.

But the way that seems far better to me is to remember that the Jews are a proud people with a noble heritage and hold our heads up high and stop such attacks right at the beginning.

We can do that by reporting any such happenings to our parents, Rabbis or Hebrew school teachers, so that they can take them up with the organizations whose business it is to protect us from those unjust attacks.

Persecution here can flourish only in secret. As soon as the authorities know about it, it is stopped because Americans as a nation believe in freedom for all people.

The Junior Post story this week is based on a case that really happened to a boy in the East although, of course, the names and details are fictional.

Democracy Comes to Midtown

Philip sat on the front steps, dejectedly tossing his baseball from one hand to the other, and feeling unhappy.

"Well, hello," a cheery voice made Philip look up.

"Hello, Mr. Terry," he replied brightening. Bob Terry was sports editor of the Midtown Courier, and had once played on a major baseball team. It was he who had taught Philip to throw a curved ball that had made him the best pitcher in the neighborhood.

"I hear you are to pitch for our Community House team in

PUZZLE BOX

Have you ever played WORD GOLF? It is a different kind of puzzle. We start with a word and change it to a completely opposite word in a stated number of steps. The catch is that you may change only one letter at each stage and with the changed letter the word must still make sense. You can do just as the weatherman did and change COLD to HEAT in five steps. Try it.

COLD

HEAT

The solution is on Page 7 of this section. The cities in last issue's scrambled cities puzzle were Berlin, Tokyo, Washington, Tel Aviv and Warsaw.

the city tournament, Phil. Congratulations!"

"No, I'm not," Philip said shortly.

"But Bill Strong, the coach, told me you had been chosen."

"Yes, I was chosen, but I don't play, it seems. Some of the other players don't want a Jewish boy on the team."

"What has your being Jewish to do with playing ball?"

"Well, it's that Biff Watson, you know, the one whose father has the restaurant on 12th street."

"Yes, I know Biff. He's something of a bully, isn't he?"

"Yeh. He wanted to pitch, but was made shortstop. Then he started all this talk about not needing Jews on an American team. Not only that, he told me if I ever came to practice again he would see to it that it was the last time."

"He did, did he! You aren't going to let him frighten you with threats, are you?"

A determined voice came from the window above.

"Yes he is, Mr. Terry. A baseball player Philip doesn't have to be. He can study his lessons and not have to worry about that Nazi from 12th Street. Philip's father is fighting the Nazis in Italy and that's enough for one family."

Bob Terry turned to the voice.

"But Mrs. Levin, this is more than just baseball. If your son allows that bully to frighten him about this one thing, it will make Biff and his friends bolder and soon no Jewish boy will be safe on the streets. We have to stop this business right now."

"How will you stop it, tell me?"

"Just leave that to me."

Philip's mother thought awhile and then she looked at her son's pleading face. "Very well, once more he may go. We will see what happens."

When the team was gathered for practice the next day, John

LETTERS

The letter contest ends with the next edition of The Junior Post, and the winner will be announced on June 23. There is still time to write us a letter about what you or your school or Sunday school is doing to help the war effort, and perhaps you can win the prize. Send your entry to The Junior Post, Box 1633, Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Harriett Dieter, 3036 Park Avenue, a freshman at Shortridge High School, gives us an interesting account of the novel plan Shortridge used for its bond rally. Dear Junior Post:

Shortridge has just finished a most successful bond rally. It was a contest to elect the Victory Queen of the rally among candidates put up by the different clubs. All the students and their families and friends bought bonds to be credited to the contestant they wanted to win. The Queen was Annie Metzger. Dotti Freidland, a Jewish girl, was one of the candidates and a great many bonds were sold in her name.

Enough money was raised to buy a fleet of Mustang planes and enough gasoline to fly them around the world.

The school was so enthusiastic that it was decided to continue the bond drive for another week and try to double the amount of bonds sold. On June 1st, when the second drive ended, we had sold enough additional bonds to buy a Flying Fortress, a bomber, and a P-51 pursuit ship.

Sincerely yours,
HARRIETT DIETER.

I wonder if other schools have used this plan to sell bonds and if it was as successful. Our readers would like to know, so write and tell us.

Strong, the coach, rapped for attention.

"Boys," he said, "the positions on this team were filled on the basis of ability. Now I hear that some of you are trying to decide who shall and who shall not play on the basis of religion. There is no place for religious persecution on a team. You are all American boys in an American game. There will be no change in positions. If you cannot take the job assigned to you and work together to win, there's no point in our entering the tournament. Is there any question?"

Mr. Strong looked straight at Biff, who flushed and shifted from one foot to the other, but said nothing.

All the way from the gymnasium to Hebrew School, Philip found himself looking behind him wondering whether Biff was following.

At last he was just a half block from Hebrew School. He stepped off the curb to cross the street when around the corner came a boy on a bicycle. It was Biff, going very fast and heading straight for Philip. Philip started back to the sidewalk, but before he could reach it, Biff had run into him and knocked him down with the front bicycle wheel. As he passed on, he turned and said mockingly:

I'd Rather Be Right

By Samuel Grafton

Chew betel nuts and win the war. What war? Why, the war against Mrs. Roosevelt, haven't you heard? It seems she dared to express an opinion on Mr. Churchill's opinion on Franco. That does it! She's left herself wide open! Now we've got her!

Let's all needle her, fellows, and make her feel sorry she was ever born.

Have a nut? This is what we like, a nice little issue, just big enough to put into a reader's eye. It would be awkward if we had to state an opinion on Spain ourselves. It is much more convenient to have to state only an opinion of Mrs. Roosevelt's opinion on Spain.

Have A Nut?

Have another nut? Mighty fine chewin', these nuts. Yes sir, what we like are nice simple little issues, like where it says here that the Republicans promise not to run for a third term. That would be in 1952, if they were lucky. Now, there is an issue you can carry around in your vest pocket, wrapped in a piece of tishy paper; not like some of those big issues, they break your back if you try to pick them up.

The nuts are in that box over there. What we need in this country is an enlightened public opinion, with all our marbles, I mean all our issues, right out in public view, so they can be thoroughly discussed. Like for example, this administration is planning to enslave the country, and it is going about it in a typically totalitarian way by being against the poll taxes and trying to give everybody the vote. First everybody gets the vote, and, next thing they know, they've lost their freedom. See what I mean?

Don't Go Away

Have a nut We have to preserve liberty, and if the way to do it is to keep labor unions from playing an active part in the coming campaign, why then we have to make that sacrifice, on behalf of human freedom and the dignity of nuts.

Don't go away, stranger, It's nice to talk over the real issues of the day with an intelligent, high-type man.

We have to face the fact, that the Federal Government is ruining the States. Now, under our system of checks and balances, what we need are State executives who are firmly in favor of State government, and Federal executives who are firmly in favor of State government.

Good Chewing

Want another nut? It sure is nice to live under a democratic way of life, where a man is free to discuss all the big issues, like is the President more tired than Mr. Dewey, or is Mr. Dewey more tired than the President. Keep your eye on the ball, I always say, because what we need is a fresh and vigorous President for this next period of our national life, when the Federal government is going to stop doing all this governing, and will turn everything over to the States. We want a man full of pep and energy, to carry out this here program of making fewer decisions in Washington.

Take another nut, oh, go ahead, take a handful. The nuts sure have been running fine this year. Mighty good chewin' ain't they?

FIRST REFUGEE SHIP FROM ITALY REACHES PALESTINE; 570 ABOARD

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—A vessel carrying the first transport of Jews from liberated Italy—consisting of 570 refugees from Yugoslavia, Greece and other Balkan countries —reached Palestine this week. They were provided with immigration visas by the Jewish Agency and their transportation was arranged by the Joint Distribution Committee. A group of 200 Yemenite Jews also arrived this week. Many of the Yugoslav Jews were enabled to flee that country through the assistance of Marshal Tito's forces.

Defendant Says ADL Forged Documents

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—Maximilian St. George, attorney for Joe McWilliams, one of the 29 defendants in the mass sedition trial here, objected this week to admission as evidence of documents from the files of the McCormack-Dickstein Congressional Committee. He charged that all such documents had been "forged" or "manufactured" by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

tale, you'll get your suit all messed—" And then he stopped short. Philip was lying quite still and blood was coming from a long, jagged cut on his cheek.

Biff, terrified, yelled for help and a crowd assembled. Biff began gibbering. "It was an accident. He must have hit his head. I didn't mean it." He was still crying and talking as Philip was driven off to the hospital.

When he opened his eyes, Philip found himself in a hospital bed. His mother and Bob Terry were standing by the window. Mr. Terry was talking.

"You mean the doctor says he'll always have a horrible scar on his face?"

"Unless we have some kind of skin operation that will cost a fortune," his mother replied.

They turned at a sound from Philip and saw that he had heard. "How do you feel, son," asked his mother.

"A little dizzy, but all right." He felt the bandage on his face and asked, "What was that about a scar?"

Mr. Terry said, "Let's not worry about that now. It's my fault that you got into this, and I'll see to it that you come out in tip-top shape. You won't have any scar. I'll see to it."

That evening the Midtown Courier carried a front page editorial. It told Philip's story and then it said, "This boy's father is fighting a war so that people everywhere may live in peace. Midtown should be ashamed that such a thing could happen to one

Maritza Sinks; Rescue Vessel Goes Under With No Loss

Special

JERUSALEM — Sinking in a Black Sea gale of the 250-ton Bulgarian motorship Maritza, which had been used to transport Jewish refugees from Rumania to Turkey, while on its way back to Constantza, Rumania, with no refugees aboard, has been announced.

Its loss, however, may strand hundreds of Jews in Rumania. The Maritza carried 200 or 300 each trip away from Hitler Europe to Turkey, from where they were sent to Palestine.

A transport of 317 Jews arrived in Palestine this week from Rumania by way of Turkey where they disembarked from the S. S. Maritza several days ago.

of its citizens. This paper is starting a fund to pay for the plastic work that is needed to remove the scar from Philip's face. Your contribution is your pledge that you will help to make our city a place where all it's people may walk in peace and in safety."

The entire town was aroused. By mid-afternoon of the next day the money for the operation was raised and gifts poured into Philip's hospital room.

It was several months later. The baseball team was giving a party at the Community House to celebrate Philip's return. Everyone was there, even the Mayor. He stood up on the platform to make a speech and he said:

"Philip, it took a near tragedy to wake this town up to the fact that we were doing the same things here that our fighting men are trying to stop Hitler from doing. But now we are awake—Jews, Catholics, Protestants, Negroes—we are all Americans working for the good of our town and our country."

And Philip, almost involuntarily, touched his cheek as if to say: "If only they'll remember it will all have been worthwhile."

Speaks On

Grain of Wheat

SUMMER is about here and your Mr. Segal was feeling himself to be a tired man, what with the tumult in Israel that had been enough to shatter the strongest nerves through the winter months.

He thought of getting away from it all the other day and his escape took him to a high hill in a park in his home town; below flowed the great river in immemorial serenity. His happy soul splashed around in the perfect peace of the scene until a rude hand intruded upon his meditations with a slap on the shoulder and a voice bellowed: "Well, well, this is just the place for a nice, long talk."

It was another one of the Zilches. Mr. Segal knew what was in this Zilch's mind. He would give a long talk on the controversial matters of being Jewish. He hunts Segal out to give him long talks.

"What a happy coincidence that I should meet you here!" he exclaimed.

Segal saw there was no escape even in this quiet spot where God sits in the cool of the evening and knows His work is good.

No, Segal at once said, no speeches, no arguments here. This is no place for that sort of thing. Let us rather be quiet and take this peace into our souls. It will be like a cool hand on our nerves. Zilch, Jews need nothing so much as inward peace. Try saying nothing just for five minutes!

Zilch felt spanked by Segal's rebuke and fell into a silence most unusual to him. When he had said nothing for five minutes, Segal commended his self-restraint. . . . "You see, Zilch, how pleasing it is for two Jews to sit together and say nothing, to forget their ideological quarrels, just to sit here communing with God, you might say. After all, we are the people who discovered God in the first place, though in recent years we've pretty well dropped Him from our Jewish activities to take up politics."

Segal remarked that, anyway, in silence there is the sweet reasonableness that is so lacking in Jews when they talk. Speaking of sweet reasonableness reminded him of a story he had heard from his friend, Mr. Korb of Chicago. "Let me tell you that story, Zilch. It is a true experience of Mr. Korb in his remote childhood."

Mr. Korb's childhood was in the village of Plunjan in Lithuania. The Korbs of Plunjan were people of most modest means as were all others of Plunjan. Life was no famine but then it wasn't a feast either except at Passover time.

The Korb children looked forward all year to the Passover. Oh, was that a time! Then one could feel rich, what with all the heaped up things to eat.

So the Korbs—there were four children in the family—came to another happy Passover. There were sweet things and spiced things and all nice things. It was, indeed, only a few hours before Seder-time and the table already gleamed; the little house was redolent with the fragrance of fish just cooked.

It was at this climactic moment that poignant tragedy struck at Mother Korb's pious heart. Nowadays it would mean something only to the fewest hearts to find a grain of wheat among the Passover viands a short time before the Seder. Yes, she had found a grain of wheat among the things to eat for Passover and that might mean the Seder meal was ritually unfit to eat for Passover. To find a grain of wheat was like finding a crumb of bread among the matzos!

It might mean that all this work of her hands was in vain and that there would be nothing in the house for the children to eat in the holy hour of Seder. To find out her duty in the matter was a sacred religious obligation and not to be compromised.

"Hurry to the rabbi's house," she wept, "and ask him to give judgment on this. If he says no, it will be no and we will have nothing to eat for Seder."

Mr. Korb remembers running all the way to the rabbi's house. He was a small boy. "Rabbi, my mother found a grain of wheat among our Pesach things and may we eat them?"

The rabbi, dressed in his best coat, was ready to leave for the Passover service in the synagogue; but he was a patient man.

He turned to his books: What did the venerated authorities have to say about a case like this. As he read he shook his head sadly. Then he arose and paced the floor from one room to the next and back again. Young Korb's anxiety was agony: What would the rabbi's verdict be? If he said no, there would be nothing to eat for Seder—no Seder, no sweet things, no spiced things. They had exhaled their fragrance all over the house. The way the rabbi shook his head so sadly!

He followed the rabbi about his house, as he walked to and fro. "Rabbi, please tell me."

The rabbi, deep in thought, gave no sign of noticing him even. His head was deeply bowed under the weight of his meditations; his hands were folded on his back. "Rabbi, please . . . !"

It was a half hour before the rabbi, having thought it all out, spoke:

"How many children in your family?"

"There are four of us."

"And do they eat well?"

"Yes, we are nearly always hungry."

"And your mother has prepared many things to eat for Pesach?"

"Yes, and they are so pleasant to smell."

Then said the rabbi, there can be no harm in one grain of wheat among so many good things to eat. And, besides, the children have to eat, anyway. "Go, run home and tell your mother that you may eat and a very good Pesach to all of you."

Whenever Mr. Korb reads of the hard stubbornness of Jews in their ideological quarrels, he remembers the sweet reasonableness of the rabbi of Plunjan. In the presence of the rigid ritual laws he could wink at the grain of wheat as he looked at the pile of good food around it. The food was more important than the ritual picaresque of a grain of wheat.

"Zilch," Segal said, "we magnify too much about a grain of wheat in our controversies. The trouble is we don't have to wink. A wink reduces things to their real unimportance."
